My name is Emmy Niece, and I am a financial advisor with GuideStone® who can help you craft a customized strategy tailored to your personal financial goals and objectives. I spent many years honing my skills in the private sector as an advisor. Working at GuideStone allows me to align my work with my faith, which is incredibly meaningful to me. I'm excited to help GuideStone members achieve their financial goals while adhering to these values.

With a Bachelor of Science in mathematics and an MBA in finance from Dallas Baptist University, I've built a strong foundation that I'm eager to apply in this role. I also hold FINRA Series 7, 66 and 24 licenses*.

Outside the office, I'm passionate about sports and staying active. Outside the office, I'm passionate about sports, played collegiate soccer, and staying active – with golf as an outlet for my competitive spirit. I appreciate how golf mirrors the process of financial planning, where flexibility and adaptation are key as circumstances change. This approach is central to my work as I strive to help our members navigate and refine their financial strategies to meet their evolving needs.

When I'm not staying active, my time is spent with my family, friends, and dog (Bentley). They keep things entertaining and remind me to embrace the joy in everyday moments.

I'm dedicated to providing thoughtful, principled financial advice tailored to your unique needs. I look forward to the opportunity to work together and make a positive difference in your financial journey.
